DEVINE RENEWS
HIS ATTACK ON
U. I. EXPENSESHe Urges Appropriations
Be Controlled By State Treasury

Springfield, Ill., May 11—(AP)—Rep. John P. Devine, Dixon, Democrat, today charged that the University of Illinois has been extravagant in spending appropriations and urged that its funds be controlled through the State Treasury.

Addressing the House, Devine said: "Every state officer, every state department and all institutions of the state except the University of Illinois gives an itemization of the appropriations asked. The university demands its appropriations in lump sum contained under five heads."

"There should be no favoritism shown in the matter of appropriations among the institutions of the state and it is unfair to the membership of the House for the officers and trustees of the university to ask its appropriation in this fashion."

Prints Items
Devine obtained unanimous consent to print in the House Journal a long list of itemized expenditures in the construction and furnishing of the home of the University's President, totaling $207,238.79.

"The lavish expenditure indulged in by the trustees of the University of Illinois in building and furnishing the president's home from a so-called contingent fund most aptly illustrates the danger of not making specific appropriations," Devine said.

Recalling previous attacks he had made against the university, Devine asked whether a "scandal" was not narrowly averted in the management by the Trustees of University funds.

"My information," he said, "was that there had been approximately one million dollars, secured only by a personal bond, deposited by the treasurer of the university in a bank of doubtful solvency of which the treasurer was an officer and that one member of the Board of Trustees insisted upon the funds being removed from that bank with

SEVERE WINDS,
RAIN AND HAIL
AT CHAMPAIGNConsiderable Damage
Is Reported From Central Illinois

Champaign, Ill., May 11—(AP)—A terrific rain and hail storm struck Champaign county early today, flooding highways and farm lands.

Guards were placed at the Big Four railway bridge over Salt Fork, east of Urbana, where torrents endangered the wooden trestle. Farmers beginning their spring corn planting suffered considerable losses.

Several bridges in Crystal Lake Park, Urbana, collapsed and water swirled into the basements of buildings.

CLOUDBURTS REPORTED

Hoopeston, Ill., May 11—(AP)—A cloudburst accompanied by high wind and hail inflicted severe damage over this section of Illinois last night, washing out early planted crops and flooding and undermining highways.

Nearly four inches of rain fell in eight hours. Farm buildings were blown down and hundreds of homes and business houses were flooded in Hoopeston. Rail and wire communications in every direction were interrupted. A washout on the Neckel Plate tracks wrecked a train west of East Lynn, killing the brakeman.

VERMILION RISING

Pontiac, Ill., May 11—(AP)—A downpour of nearly four inches of rain flooded the streets and isolated a part of Pontiac last night. The Vermilion river was six feet above its normal stage and still rising today.

HIGHWAY UNDER WATER

Danville, Ill., May 11—(AP)—Torrential rains, almost attaining cloudburst proportions and accompanied by hail in some places, did considerable damage in this section last night.

At Watseka, north of here, 4.75 inches of rain was reported in half an hour, filling basements and damaging gardens and growing crops.

The Dixie Highway was under water north of Danville and bus service was seriously handicapped. At Milford, Iroquois county, Sugar Creek was out of its bank and were flooded.

Less than an inch of rain fell here.

Six Of Kidnaping Ring Are Found Guilty

Two State Policemen,
Kempster And Roberts
Had Big Part In CaseJury In Peoria Federal Court Deliberated
Five Hours

Peoria, Ill., May 11—(AP)—All six defendants in the Adhemar Hughes, East Moline, and Fred DeFilippi, Spring Valley, kidnap and extortion trial here were found guilty today. The jury deliberated five hours.

Three defendants, Mike Talarico, Davenport; Frank DeBono, and Joe Varsalona, Chicago, were given maximum sentences, 42 years in the Federal penitentiary, and $5,000 fines.

Sentence was passed on three counts, two for mailed threats and punished at 20 years each, and two on conspiracy charge. Lighter sentences were given Wesley E. Pritchett, Chicago, 20 years and a $5,000 fine; Victor Cieselski, alias Heine Lee, Davenport, 2 years sentence; and Carlo DeBono, Chicago, 2 years sentence.

"Second To Murder"

Judge Louis FitzHenry in passing sentence, said: "I think that a crime of this kind is second only to murder. Men who are engaged in action of this kind should not be where they can mingle with society."

"Carlo DeBono is an unfortunate meek, unintelligent fellow. Heine Lee was merely a chauffeur for Talarico who was willing to be taught. I am giving the others the limit provided by Congress."

An hour before the verdict was reached, spectators were cleared from the court floor of the Federal building. Twenty bailiffs, deputy marshals, and prohibition agents formed a guard to halt any demonstrations.

Attorney George Q. Johnson, prosecutor of Al Capone, was seated in court as the verdict was read.

Evidence resulting in these convictions, according to Frank L. Lemon, United States District Attorney, and Marks Alexander, Assistant United States District Attorney, was the result of six months investigation conducted by Postoffice Inspectors I. V. Kinney, Rock Island, and Joseph Kenny, Chicago; State Highway Officers Hal Roberts, Dixon, and O. W. Kempster, Sterling, and Chief of Police Thomas Shaffer, East Moline.

The Capone prosecutor said in referring to the defendants following their conviction:

"I've known that type. I've studied it very carefully. Their coming from the Lexington hotel in Chicago is very significant. It is the capital of the Capone crowd. Al had an office on the fourth floor where he received. These men are very typical of the men seen around there."

Originally the defendants numbered ten, but two non-dismissals of the charges against them during the trial, and two turned government witnesses and were granted separate trials.

Both DeFilippi and Hughes were kidnaped last fall and were freed upon payment of ransoms, totalling about $20,000 in cash and jewelry. In the prosecution the government charged that the abductions were planned and carried out by a kidnap ring operating in northern Illinois and Iowa.

PETITIONS FOR
WET CANDIDATES ARE RECORDEDDry Candidates For Convention Will Also Be Filed

Springfield, Ill., May 11—(AP)—Nominating petitions for the ticket of fifty "wet" candidates for delegates to the Illinois prohibition convention were filed today with the Secretary of State.

Bearing more than the required 25,000 names, the petitions were filed by Joseph Higgins of Chicago. Pledged to vote for ratification of the national anti-prohibition amendment, the candidates will seek election June 5 to the Illinois convention here July 10.

Word was received that organized prohibitionists would also file petitions, signed by 100,000 persons, nominating a slate of fifty dry candidates. Midnight is the deadline for filing.

Each side of the prohibition issue formed coalitions to present uniting fronts at the June election.

There was no indication that any petition not supported by the major organizations would be filed. This would permit a straight wet or dry vote on which of the two tickets of fifty would vote on ratification.

Commissioners
Agreed On Successor
To Brooks

With thirty days in which to fill the vacancy in the city Commission caused by the sudden death of Commissioner H. A. Brooks of the Department of Public Health and Safety, whose funeral was being held this afternoon, it was reported today that his successor had been practically decided upon. While several were said to have been considered, it was believed that members of the council had discussed the qualifications of one applicant and had all but formally decided upon his selection, although no names were revealed.

At the same time there was a possibility of reorganization of the present commission. It was hinted that some of the present commissioners are anxious to change their departments and some were contemplating new assignments, after the re-organization and selection of another member to fill out the unexpired term of about two years. It was expected that the council would take some action at the meeting next Tuesday evening without delay further.

Germany Holds Up
Tariff Armistice

London, May 11—(AP)—Germany's unwillingness to give prompt assent to the draft tariff truce text has definitely delayed the formal acceptance of the armistice project.

German assent had been expected last evening and again this forenoon, but when the German reply finally was received after a noon meeting of the cabinet of the Reich in Berlin, it was to the effect that the German government would need more time to study the proposals.

With the sales tax law held unconstitutional and the state faced with the necessity of raising relief funds, administration leaders today studied possible alternative plans.

Two had been suggested. One was to re-draft the sales tax legislation to eliminate the double objections upon which the Supreme Court unanimously declared it void yesterday.

The other was to throw administrative support behind one of the occupational tax bills now before the legislature.

The only points of law which the court found unconstitutional in the sales tax case were the exemption of motor fuel and farm produce sold directly to the consumer and the appropriation of funds for unemployment relief as well as replacement of school taxes upon general property.

"These constitutional objections result from structural defects of the act and do not preclude the General Assembly from passing a constitutional occupation tax," Attorney General Otto Kerner said.

Not Customers' Levy
The court ruled that the sales tax was a tax on the occupation of retail selling, rather than a levy on consumers, which its opponents had claimed. Repeatedly it has held that the state constitution permits taxes only on occupations, privileges and property.

While previous attempts to enact state income tax laws have been held to violate the revenue limitations of the Constitution, several proposals have been made to raise funds by taxing incomes along occupational principles.

If the sales tax were rewritten, elimination of the unconstitutional provisions probably would alienate support of rural representatives of downstate counties. The Kerner administration mustered barely sufficient strength to pass the sales tax two months ago.

Concessions were made to the farm vote by the elimination of a tax on sales of farm produce sold by the producer, but the court ruled that because of this the law lacked uniformity and hence was improper.

Similar comment was made on the exemption of motor fuel, deserts at 7:11 P. M.

Moore, who had been under suspicion since the day after the fire, was arrested early today on a farm at Hancock.

He told authorities he had been a spectator at a fire which destroyed a vacant factory here about a week before Sunday night's conflagration and had enjoyed watching the flames and seeing the fire apparatus.

NEW SCHEME OF
TAXATION SOUGHT
BY GOV. HORNERPossible Alternatives For Sales Tax Are Being Considered

BULLETIN

Springfield, Ill., May 11—(AP)—The state will make no attempt to revive the three per cent sales tax law which has been held unconstitutional.

Montgomery S. Winning, First Assistant Attorney General, today said there would be no request for a rehearing and that the case had been disposed of with the Supreme Court's adverse opinion yesterday.

Governor Horner, who sponsored the sales tax to provide for unemployment relief, had made no comment. He and a group of other officials were at Taylorville today to attend the funeral of Senator Clifford J. Vogelzang.

Rep. Roger F. Little, Champaign Republican, today introduced a one per cent gross income tax bill, providing for no exemptions.

Little said it was drawn so as to meet the objections raised by the Supreme Court when it held an income tax law unconstitutional a few years ago.

The House adopted a joint resolution asking that an investigation be made to determine if a new sales tax bill could be drawn up to comply with the constitutional provisions outlined by the Illinois Supreme Court.

A resolution now goes to the Senate for concurrence. It was introduced by Benjamin S. Alamowski, Chicago Democrat.

He proposed that a committee of three members of each house confer with Governor Horner and Attorney General Kerner to see if a new sales tax plan would be possible and practical.

Director Joseph J. Rice of the Finance Department was called upon to suggest to retailers that any unclaimed sales tax funds they had collected should be turned over to the Illinois Emergency Commission for relief purposes.

EDITORIAL

WHAT TO DO WITH THE SALES TAX COLLECTIONS

Since April first the merchants of Lee County, as in all other counties in the state, have been collecting an extra three per cent tax on sales to the consumer in obedience to the law passed by the sitting General Assembly. The merchants of Dixon and Lee County have collected from their customers a tax levy that must run into tens of thousands of dollars.

Cannot this big sum of money, which was intended for relief of the unemployed, be devoted to that same purpose?

The intent and aim of the sales tax was to provide funds for unemployment relief. This state has exhausted its resources in the prolonged struggle to provide maintenance for its many thousands of unemployed families. For many months the state of Illinois has been leaning on the federal government for funds that are supplying subsistence for a great proportion of our population.

Approximately one-fifth of the people of Dixon are dependent upon their bread and butter (and we should have said "oleo") through the agency of the County Emergency Relief Commission, which is represented in Dixon by David H. Spencer, Supervisor of Dixon township.

The buying public (what there is left of it) has been paying the three per cent tax for a month and about a third of the second month and the buying public was paying those extra pennies and dimes and dollars reluctantly but consoling itself with the thought that the extra tax money would buy food and clothing for the unfortunate unemployed families.

The Evening Telegraph suggests that the Lee County merchants who have collected this three per cent tax from their customers should now voluntarily turn those collections over to public relief work. The original purpose of the tax levy was to alleviate the suffering and privation caused by unemployment. If the merchants of each township will donate to their township supervisor the amount of the tax collected that money will be used for unemployment relief.

In Dixon many thousands of dollars have been collected for sales tax in the last forty days. We are sure that the merchants who collected this tax did so because the law required it and now that the law has been declared invalid they will be glad to turn those taxes over to the purposes for which they were intended.

Any merchants who made arrangements for the refund of tax payments should, of course, give the payee ample opportunity to collect his refund and then turn the balance of his tax collection over to public welfare. Merchants who have made no promises of refund of the sales tax should now turn such collections over to the agencies of unemployment relief.

In Dixon there are two agencies of unemployment relief which merit public support and which are contributing much to the public welfare and are relieving widespread suffering and want in this community. The Lee County branch of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission is supplying food, clothing, fuel and the necessities of life to at least two thousands of Dixon's citizens and to many scores of families over the county. The Community Kitchen, sponsored by the Dixon Loyalty League, has also done yeoman service throughout this distressing period. It has splendidly fulfilled its original mission of supplying meals for the thousands of transients passing through the city (who would otherwise have been a burden on the housekeeper or the businessman who would have been a victim of their pan-handling) and this Community Kitchen has also supplied thousands of meals to hungry school children—has helped to build up their starved bodies and has supplemented the work of the unemployment relief committee to such an extent that its value is beyond computation.

Dixon merchants who want this (now) illegally collected sales tax money to reach its intended goal should turn the tax money over to either the Dixon Township unemployment relief fund, where it will be used for general maintenance of Dixon unemployed families, or to the Community Kitchen operated by the Dixon Loyalty League, where everyone knows that the money will also be put to good use for the benefit of the community.

In Dixon the collected three per cent tax funds which merchants may wish to donate to general unemployment relief by the township should be turned over to Township Supervisor David H. Spencer. If you prefer to give your collections to the Loyalty League's Kitchen, turn your money over to Frank Stephen at the Dixon Loan & Building Association office. You may leave your donation at either bank.

It is suggested that all donations should be made at once as welfare work and the activities of the Community Kitchen are right now slowed up for lack of funds.

BUSINESS REVIVING

By The Associated Press
Belief that business had finally found and rounded that elusive "corner" and was now strolling arm in arm with prosperity was expressed today by industrial leaders as they watched orders pile up for the first time since 1929.

The confidence was reflected in the employees, too, in the way of faster pay envelopes as wage boosts continued to be announced and jobs became more plentiful in lines ranging from ice cream makers to railroads.

Among the latter, the New York Central, Missouri Pacific, International Great Northern, Gulf Coast Lines, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, and St. Louis-San Francisco reported carloadings on the rise.

Wage Boosts Increase
New York state was genuinely encouraged by a report that 16,000 persons went back to work there last month. At Detroit the National Steel Company said 300 men would be employed to complete a $25,000 construction job.

Concerns in Cleveland, Akron and Lima, O., Los Angeles, Benoni, Pa., Martinsville, Va., were among those to add their names to the growing list that have granted wage increases. The boosts have mostly been for five or 10 per cent.

Reported today were: A sharp jump in wholesale commodity prices for the week ending May 9 was calculated from a list of the United States Department of Commerce.

AROUND THE CORNER

Around the corner I have a friend. In this great city which has no end. Yet days go by and weeks rush on. And before I know it a year is gone. And I never see my old friend's face. For life is a swift and terrible race. He knows I like him just as well. As in the days when I rang his bell. And he rang mine. We were young-er then. And now we are busy, tired men. Tired with playing a foolish game. Tired with trying to make a name. "To-morrow," I say, "I will call on Jim. Just to show that I'm thinking of him." But to-morrow comes — and to-morrow goes. And the distance between us grows and grows. Around the corner! — yet miles away. "Here's a telegram sir," Jim died to-day. And that's what we get — yet deserve in the end — Around the corner a vanished friend. —Charles Hanson Towne.

NEW SCHEME OF TAXATION SOUGHT BY GOV. HORNER

pite the present tax on gasoline used on highways.
A revised sales tax also would require that receipts go only to ward care of the jobless, to avoid the unconstitutional double appropriation. Farm representatives who object to high property taxes had insisted upon the provision that downstate counties with no pressing relief problem could use the sales revenue to replace school levies.
On other points, the Supreme Justices held in favor of the state's arguments in the sales tax injunction litigation.
While awaiting comment by Governor Horner, the Attorney General indicated that a rehearing of the case would not be asked. He urged merchants to return to their customers the sales tax revenue collected since April 1.
A rehearing is the only legal recourse possible, since an appeal cannot be made to the Supreme Court of the United States.
"Asks 'Conscience Fund'"
Creation of a "conscience fund" through which sales tax money collected by merchants could be paid to the state and used in relief work was proposed in the House today.
The bill by Rep. R. V. Libonati, Chicago Republican, was immediately advanced to second reading.
The State Treasurer would distribute money in the "conscience fund" among the counties on a population basis to be used solely for relief.
Libonati said he had received estimates that from $1,500,000 to $5,000,000 in sales tax charges had been collected by merchants since April 1.

TRUCKS COLLIDED

Two trucks going in opposite directions crashed this morning about 3 o'clock on the Lincoln Highway near the Lee-Whiteside county line east of Sterling. George Arcuci of Chicago was going west and Raymond Brueske of New Ulm, Minn., was driving to Chicago with a truck load of eggs. Arcuci claimed that Brueske was crowding over the center of the paving which caused the trucks to crash. The Chicago truck was the most damaged, being overturned and groceries strewn along the paving a distance of many feet. About the cases of eggs on the Chicago bound truck were broken open and scrambled, neither of the drivers sustaining injuries.

TAX TO KITCHEN

Several Dixon merchants, members of the Dixon Loyalty League have designated the Community Kitchen to receive the amount of sales tax collected since the enactment of the law which yesterday was declared unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court. Some of the business houses have designated a date when the tax will be refunded to the customer, after which the remainder will be turned over to the committee in charge of the Kitchen.
By this arrangement it is expected that the Kitchen will be able to remain open and function probably through the summer months. Final action will be taken when the Loyalty League meets next week to consider several projects.

TRUCK DRIVER HELD

John Nissen of Olin, Iowa, driving a truck load of stock to the Chicago market, was detained at the local police station this morning about 2:30 for questioning concerning a wreck in which one of the Interstate buses was reported to have been badly damaged near Prairieville. Patrolmen Pomeroy and Seagren stopped the truck near seventh street and Galena avenue, as it passed through Dixon, and according to the officers, pieces of the wrecked, passing bus were hanging onto the rear of the Iowa truck. Nissen was taken to the police station where he was detained for some time until the driver of the bus came from Sterling and completed his report of the accident. No prosecution having been started locally.

STATION HELD UP

Paul Koepke, station attendant at the Mid Continent service station on Peoria avenue and River street, reported to the police last night about 9:15, of having been held up and robbed by two young men, and about $30 taken. The two strangers were said to have visited the station earlier in the evening and purchased two gallons of gasoline and returning, ordered Koepke to put eight gallons in their car. When he went into the station to make change for the bill tendered him, he told the police he was robbed and the strangers drove north across the Peoria avenue bridge.

Presbyterians Of Dixon Remembered Former Minister

Next Sunday, May 14th, will be the fiftieth anniversary of the Rev. A. K. Bickenbach, who was for a goodly number of years the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Dixon, as a minister in the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. The local congregation on last Sunday morning voted to send the following to be read at the celebration of this anniversary in the First Presbyterian church of Oregon.

"The congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Dixon, Ill. voted with entire unanimity, to extend to you most cordial congratulations on the attainment of fifty years as a minister of the gospel in the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. It is great to be a Presbyterian minister for even five years. It is more than ten times greater to have been one for fifty years. Again our congratulations.

"The motion, as acted upon by the congregation on last Sunday morning, carried with it the expressed wish that you and Mrs. Bickenbach may, on next Sunday, experience the deep, rich reward which comes to him who faithfully serves and that joy, health and peace may be yours all the golden sunset days that remain.

"Signed by J. Frank Young in behalf of the congregation."

Claire Windsor Favors the Chic Trouser Suit

CLAIRE WINDSOR

By NEA Service

Hollywood—Bicycling has Hollywood by the ears. And every bicyclist has her own idea of what's what in peddling apparel.

Claire Windsor wears a chic white trouser suit, with Norfolk jacket, flaring trousers, beret and flat white buckskin shoes.

Janet Gaynor peddles in divided skirted pique dresses, cute blue ones, with the waists made like polo shirts, throat open, sleeves short.

Ruth Abbott and Leah Ray, youngsters that they are, wear shorts—Ruth, a polka dotted red and white shirt and shorts suit and beret; Leah, blue jersey shorts and a cute white pullover sweatshirt, with tiny puffed sleeves and an anchor on the front of it.

Joan Blondell, riding her bike but followed by her chauffeur and car, wore a two-piece trouser suit of light blue jersey.

Verna Hillie rides her bike and roller skates in black velvet trunks, short sox, flat-heeled white shoes and white silk blouses, open at the throat and with short sleeves.

War Mothers Will Sponsor Carnation Sale on Saturday

The Lee Co. Chapter of American War Mothers held an all-day meeting in the Legion Hall Friday, May 5th.

There was a very good attendance, and the usual amount of business was taken care of, and arrangements for the annual carnation sale were made. The carnations are at the home of Mrs. John Strub, and the Mothers would like about twenty girls to act as sales ladies on Saturday. The usual prizes will be given to all those who sell the required number of carnations. Mrs. Lillian Stevens is chairman of this committee, and will be found at the Legion Hall with a supply of carnations for those who want to sell Saturday morning.

The girls who wish to sell in their own neighborhood can get carnations at the home of Mrs. Strub, 215 5th street, Thursday and Friday afternoons.

The Mothers are very much pleased with the election of Mrs. Clea Bunnell as second vice president and the appointment of Mrs. Strub as magazine chairman for the state. Both ladies have held state offices during the last year and are well qualified to fill their respective offices for the ensuing year.

The next meeting will be held in the Legion Hall on Friday afternoon May 19th, at 2:30.

A Deserted House

ONCE it had an open fire, Counterpanes turned back, Firelight doing lovely things To the saucer rack.

LINEN flapping in the wind, Crusted loaves of bread, Children licking frosting bowls, Meals where prayers were said.

LONG ago somebody's hands Saw the color needs... Rambling roses climb the porch From those flower seeds.

DID a woman take her place At that window-pane, Watching for a man to come Homeward through the rain?

DID fire-brightness cast a charm On her soft brown hair? Shut the worn door quietly... Someone's ghosts live there.

This is to be much smaller than the past annuals, but will contain the same picture space, leaving out long pieces of literature. At present almost 700 orders have been received. It will appear late in the school term.

CHANGING IDEAS ON BUSINESS CONTROL

If someone sat down to write a history of the Sherman anti-trust law, and the varying attitudes which the public has displayed toward it, he would find when he got through that he had also written the history of one of the most significant phases of the whole industrial revolution. The Sherman act bridges the gap between two diametrically opposite ways of looking at the fruits of the machine age.

It was born when the whole nation looked with suspicion and an uneasy distrust on the giant combines of industry and finance. Mere size, in itself, seemed bad in those days. Our ideal was still the small business man, the small industrialist, the man who knew all of his employees by name and carried most of the details of his business in his own head. That seemed to be the only kind of business that jibed with our traditional concepts of freedom.

But the tide was running the other way. Instead of small shops we got vast plants employing men by the thousands; great net-works of interlocking businesses that blanketed the entire country, with a maze of security setups that seemed to put ownership and management above the rich of public control.

So we adopted the Sherman law, hoping to stem the tide.

But the tide kept on moving; and as it moved our ideas changed.

We began to discover that "big business" was an inevitable outgrowth of the age of machinery. The trend couldn't possibly be stopped. The day of large-scale operations and giant combinations had arrived and we could do little but make the best of it.

And this, we began to see, might not be so bad, after all. If we could somehow foster this bigness, help it to become even bigger and more widespread, and at the same time work out some scheme by which social values would weigh just as heavily as profits, we might do very well for ourselves.

So now leaders in the administration discuss with industrial leaders the possibility of modifying the Sherman law—partly in the interest of business, but chiefly in the interest of the ordinary citizen.

UNDERSTANDING CANCER

The campaign against cancer continues in bad times as well as in good times; and its chief weapon is an adequate public understanding of just what cancer is and just how it ought to be treated.

Dr. C. A. Gerster, chairman of the New York City Cancer Committee, points out that three simple facts about cancer need to be understood: first that if discovered early and treated promptly and properly, it is often curable; second, that it can be avoided by removal of conditions causing chronic irritation; and third, that it is not contagious and not inherited.

"Many persons," says Dr. Gerster, "avoid going to a doctor even when they notice suspicious symptoms because of their belief that every cancer is always incurable from the start. Many others fall victims to the advertisements of quacks, who promise cancer cures 'without the knife'—promises which in the course of time only too often prove valueless.

"A better understanding of the disease should lead people to seek competent advice more quickly."

DEPRESSION TRAGEDY

One of the saddest of all the stories of the depression is the one about the 14-year-old Indianapolis school girl who tried to end her life because her schoolmates taunted her when they found her wearing a shabby pair of shoes which one of their number had thrown away.

The girl was one of 12 children of a jobless miner. The family had no money for shoes or anything else. She had to wear the discarded shoes, which had been found on some scrap heap, or go without.

It has often been remarked that the weight of the depression rests most heavily on the children; and this pitiful little story is a reminder that it is not only the physical deprivation which counts. The mental anguish inflicted on this youngster by the thoughtless cruelty of her schoolmates is the sort of thing that is a long time healing.

MONEY—FROM THE STONE AGE TILL NOW

Though Germany increased her currency five times during the war, prices were held down by law. When the blockade was lifted, and restrictions removed, prices began to skyrocket. At first people were pleased, feeling that it was a price rise, not realizing that it was a money decline.

Russia deliberately repudiated the gold ruble in its efforts to destroy all trace of the old regime. Everyone who had any rubles lost 100%. Austria followed Germany in printing paper money to pay debts that could be paid in no other way.

Prices continued to rise in Germany until in 1923 it became clear to everyone that it was not prices that were rising, but money that was becoming worthless. One German wrote, "Yesterday my chop at luncheon cost 600,000 marks, but today it cost 1,500,000."

Finally it was necessary to repudiate the mark completely and start an entirely new monetary system. Creditors who had loaned real money were paid back in worthless paper. People who had saved all their lives were rewarded with a few cents. Millions were utterly ruined. Living standards fell, and poverty and privation were the lot of a whole people. (NEXT: The U. S. Goes Off Gold.)

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The work witch kept on yelling, climb inside the shoe and up we all will go. Gee, don't waste any time.

"The witch now knows we are pretty slick, and that we are 'bout to pull a trick." Then Duney said, "The shoe's so big, it's very hard to climb."

My, what a scramble 'round the shoe. The next thing that the Tiniest knew they all were in a big shoe, and both the girls were laughing loud.

One girl said, "Are we all inside? All right, then, we'll start on our ride. In just about a minute we will be heading toward a cloud."

The great big shoe then shook a bit. The old work witch tried grabbing it, but simply couldn't hang on, as the Tiniest sailed far away.

"So long," one of the little girls cried out. "You hate to see us leave, no doubt. Instead of doing your work, though, we are off to have some play."

(The wooden shoe proves to be a good boat in the next story.)

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Quietly, but in a determined fashion, the leaders of the republican party are going about the task of perfecting their organization for the congressional elections of 1934 and the big push for the presidency in 1936.

There's nothing much being said publicly as yet. The big guns of the G. O. P. around Washington, when questioned about their activities, put on vague expressions, and wise smiles, but say little.

But there are definite indications that they are at work.

The appearance of Oden Mills, Secretary of the Treasury under the Hoover administration, on the scene in Washington, presumably directing the fight against the inflation proposal, aroused the interest of the political wise ones.

Announcement also of creation of the so-called Federal Associates an organization composed of many of the leaders in the Hoover administration and headed by Walter Brown, Postmaster General, under Hoover, and Mills, likewise started political gossip.

AN UNDERSTANDING?

Mills and Representative Wadsworth of New York have been mentioned in all speculation as to who will be the G. O. P. standard his old seat in the senate next year. The democratic Senator Copeland is up to run then. Were Wadsworth to decide on such a course, it might be of great political significance.

There is another figure on the political horizon at the present that every one is watching. He is Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican floor leader.

UNLISTED DOUBTFULS

Coming from the west, he might find himself in a favorite position by the time the nominating convention rolls around. It may be significant, too, that McNary's name is not found on the roster of the Federal Associates. It could mean that he is playing his own game alone.

There's another republican who enjoyed high position under President Hoover whose name is conspicuously absent from all these newly formed organizations. He is Pat Hurley, former Secretary of War.

He says that he is engaged exclusively in the practice of law in Washington and that he's not interested in politics now. Those who know Hurley find it difficult to believe that politics does not interest him.

"I DID NOT THINK"

(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton)

An old Buddhist parable tells of a man who had done evil with his body, his mind, his voice, and the guardians of hell brought him before the Lord of the Dead, who questioned him as follows:

"O man, did you not see the first messenger of warning appear visibly among men? Did you not see an old man, decrepit, bowed, white of hair, trembling and tottering?"

"Lord, I did; but I did not think," replied the man.

"O man, did you not see the second messenger of warning? Did you not see a man diseased, suffering, grievously sick, rolling in pain, who, lying down, had to be lifted by others?"

"Lord, I did; but I did not think," said the man.

"O man, did you not see the third messenger of warning? Did you not see a man that had been three days dead, and had become swollen and black?"

"Lord, I did; but I did not think," said the man.

"O man, did it not occur to you, being a person of mature mind and years: 'I also am subject to age, sickness, and death, and am

INSOMNIA

While there are very few deaths that can be properly attributed to insomnia, it is a troublesome condition and one which renders the sufferer's days as well as his nights miserable.

The difficulty, of course, is that we know so little about the physiology of sleep. A scientist who recently published a book on the subject of insomnia defines it as a failure to achieve a normal degree of that state of minimal activity of mind and body which we call sleep. One might observe facetiously that according to this, insomnia means difficulty in falling asleep.

Insomnia has been tackled from the mental as well as the physical side. In the physical approach it has been found that the therapy for insomnia consists substantially in the attempt to alter the environment of the patient rather than to treat the insomnia.

In other words, we attempt to adjust the surroundings to the patient, instead of trying to educate the patient up to his environment. Massage, muscular relaxation, the elimination of toxic factors, of digestive disturbances, and especially improving the patient's attitude toward his symptoms, are each effective in certain cases.

Lately, the psychologic aspects of insomnia have received close study. It has been found that sleeplessness is frequently due to a sense of insecurity.

Sleep is a sort of dissociation of the full consciousness of the individual. As we fall asleep our sight, touch, hearing and the other senses either entirely cease or become much diminished.

Hence, if the patient labors under a sense of insecurity, he is unwilling to give up awareness. This sense of insecurity need not be specific, that is, the patient need not fear a concrete object or a well defined condition. He may feel insecure in a rather general and ill-defined manner. In such cases psychotherapy may help.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT A MASS MEETING OF THE MEMBERS OF THE ILLINOIS TAXPAYERS ASSOCIATION

Held in the City of Springfield, Illinois in the Auditorium of the Centennial Building on Wednesday, May 3, 1933 at One O'clock.

1. A vote of thanks and appreciation is hereby extended to Governor Henry Horner, State Senator Earl B. Searcy, State Senator J. C. Monroe, Honorable E. J. Schnackenberg, the Honorable James T. Burns for their splendid addresses and words of encouragement.

2. We desire to make public expression of our appreciation of the patriotism manifested by many members of our Legislature, in both the Senate and Lower House, in the introduction, furtherance and affirmative vote on bills which have for their object the reduction of expenses of Government without impairing its efficiency and particularly such bills as had for their object the accomplishment of paragraphs B, C, D, E, F, H, I, J, and K of the resolutions adopted at the State-wide conference of Tax Payers held in Bloomington, Illinois, on January 10, 1933. We feel that the voters and taxpayers of the State of Illinois are entitled to know who these men and women are and that it is the duty of this organization to make known to our members and the public generally, the record of these tribunes of the people.

3. We regret, in view of the many campaign promises to reduce taxes made by the present administration, that owing to conditions during the previous administration, the state tax rate for this year, instead of less is 11 cents higher. We believe that we owe it to the administration of Governor Horner to make public proclamation of the fact that he or his administration should not be charged with this increase.

4. We feel, however, in view of the promises of tax reduction made to the people of the State during the campaign, that with this increase, a greater responsibility rests upon the Governor to brush aside technicalities and make every drastic reduction that can be made in State expenses and to pass laws proposed looking toward a reduction of the expenses of County, Township and School Government, and particularly laws limiting the total taxes which can be imposed on real estate and tangible property, and laws which will require intangible property to bear its just share of Government, by the widening of the tax base, so that all people may be made tax conscious and so that the degradation and confiscation of real estate which not only has been getting more and more intolerable but which, unless corrected will inevitably lead to the destruction of our Government and to anarchy, violence and disorder.

5. The failure of Governor Horner to suggest to the Legislature a definite and constructive program for Revenue and tax reform is a distinct disappointment to the taxpayers of Illinois.

This lack of leadership in pointing out the way and urging the necessity for new forms of revenue to be used as a replacement for taxes now borne by real estate, has resulted in practically no legislation thus far by the present General Assembly, which is of any real benefit to the taxpayers.

The Administration and the Legislature are now in the fifth month of their labors and approximately but six weeks remain.

Forty-nine bills have been enacted into law; of these H. B. 223 reducing salaries of Supervisors and H. B. 289 reducing the number of members of the Tax Commission, the Parole Board and the Commerce Commission are the only new laws which provide any tax relief.

These results are pitifully negligible as compared with the outstanding accomplishments in less than two months by the leadership of the President, and by the new Governor of Indiana in a 60 day session of his Legislature, when our people in desperate distress are praying for help.

The tax burden now borne by real estate has become unbearable and the members of the Illinois Taxpayers Association demand prompt and effective leadership and action by this Administration and Legislature to relieve the same.

6. The attitude of this organization and of the people of the State of Illinois is due our President and the members of Congress for their patriotic, courageous and co-operated action in seeking to restore the purchasing power of the dollar and to relieve the burden resting upon farmers, small home owners and the tax payers generally.

7. While we commend the Committee bills known as the Hunter Bills as providing a well considered ultimate program, yet we believe that for two years the building of new slab roads should be practically suspended and that the only moneys which should be used by the State prior to July 1, 1935 for our road system should be limited to maintenance and patrol, including the payment of maturing installments on account of outstanding bonds and interest thereon, and that all money derived from the gas tax should be re-allocated, giving to the counties one-third, the cities and villages one-third and the townships one-third, said last two-thirds to be used as replacement for present taxes. And we unqualifiedly endorse Senate Bill 308, introduced by Senator Searcy, which so provides; also the following Senate Bills introduced by Mr. Searcy, namely Senate bills 531, 532, 533 and 534 and 535 known as companion bills. And we also approve House Bills 739 to 744 inclusive, introduced by Representatives McClure and Hall to the same effect.

We also endorse Senator Searcy's Senate Bill 222 fixing a limit on all taxes which can be imposed on any real estate exclusive of state taxes, judgments, bonds and interest, to one per cent of full value, and his companion bill, Senate Bill 223; and Senator Gunning's Senate Bill 23 with objectives of compelling personal property to pay its just share of the cost of government.

8. We also approve the efforts that have been made by Representatives of the General Assembly to reach incomes so far as it is possible so to do under the present Constitution and commend Senator Kribs for the introduction of Bills 242, 243 and 244.

We approve and endorse Senate Bill 521, which provides that all property subject to taxation except income other than income from property which has been listed for taxation shall be taxed, introduced by Senator Simon L. Lantz, and also companion bill Senate Bill 522 introduced by Senator Lantz.

9. We also approve and commend the efforts of Senator J. C. Monroe which also have for their object the widening of the tax base and a corresponding reduction of the tax burden on real estate by imposing a tax on incomes derived from vocations as provided in Senate Bill 296.

And we endorse Senate Bill No. 530 introduced by Senator Simon L. Lantz having a like object and now pending in the State Senate.

We deeply regret and deplore the unsympathetic attitude that has been manifested at times by many of the Senators and Representatives from the City of Chicago toward downstate interests.

This matter has been not only the subject of discussion but the cause of much bitterness in the years past. It has been the cause of the defeat of much salutary legislation. With such a condition existing, bills have not been considered on their merits.

In recent weeks, from the reports that come in, that the situation is more serious than it ever was and there is frequently heard the statement that many of those representing the City of Chicago are "drunk with power." This statement is supported by alleged quotations from those representing the City of Chicago, as lobbyists and otherwise that "we can pass anything we want to." "We are going to ram these measures down your throat and make you like it."

A broad-minded view is that the interests of Chicago and downstate are mutual and reciprocal, but it seems that more and more it is becoming evident that this is not the viewpoint in which the matter is considered, until it seems that the most practical solution would be the formation of Illinois into two states, the one composed of the City of Chicago and such, if any, other territory as may desire to be associated with it, and the remainder the present State of Illinois. We believe that the present State Constitution adopted in 1870 has outlived its usefulness. The same is a chaotic, anti-dated and unfitted for the expanded and expanding development of our State. Its provisions deter the legislature from passing the Governor from signing the Courts from approving many salutary measures which would be in the interest of the great majority of our citizens and tax payers.

We therefore call upon the Legislature to call a Constitutional Convention, to draft a new Constitution to be submitted to the people.

Article 9, being the Revenue Act of the Constitution, should be amended at the earliest possible moment so as to permit legislation that will at once lift a large part of the tax burden from real estate.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS ASSERTS HIS KINGSHIP

Text: Mark 11:1-10, 13-18.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 14.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem, still celebrated in Palm Sunday, is in such strange contrast with the tragic events that happened before the end of the week in the trial and crucifixion of Jesus, that it is hard to understand how such a change should have taken place so quickly.

Yet when one looks into history one realizes that such sudden upheavals of public sentiment, and such contrasts of experience, have not been isolated events. Again and again we have found some prophetic leader in a high position, with power and influence with the masses, supported with all the enthusiasm of the people, suddenly, through some incident or change of sentiment, cast down from his position of power and popularity; occasionally, like Jesus himself, going down to death, where but recently he had had power over the destinies of other men.

Popular sentiment is very fickle, and Jesus knew this perfectly well, for had he not warned his disciples, "Beware of men," knowing that men would betray them and persecute them?

If we can, however, for the moment forget the shadow of the cross, which Jesus, as we have seen from the last lesson, knew to be hanging over him, what a picture we get of his entry into Jerusalem! The sheer power that he manifested through his goodness and righteousness, and the accomplishment of a man strong in the sense of his own right and of his own mission against the forces of evil and unrighteousness!

There is an air of mystery about his entrance riding the colt upon which no man had ridden. If there be a symbolism in the incident, it would be in the suggestion as to how much the power and glory of Jesus were associated with the spirit of those who were willing to place their colt at the disposal of the Master in response to the simple request "the Lord hath need of him." If we should all place ourselves and our possessions thus at the service of the Master, what triumphal entries of the King of Kings into our modern cities might be possible!

The incident of Jesus driving out the bargainers in the temple, and overthrowing the tables of the money changers, is one that has strongly caught the imagination of mankind, and it has played a large part in the discussion of the philosophy and practice of the Christian religion. The incident has been used again and again as an argument upon Christian grounds to justify war and violence.

Whatever may be said of the use of force upon other grounds, it would seem that this incident has little to do with the matter. It would appear that the authority that Jesus exercised was largely that of moral indignation. The money changers certainly had the physical power to resist him and to resist him successfully if they had stood their ground or combined against him.

It was the power of his moral invasion and the strength of his denunciation against the weakness of their mercenary and selfish practice that overwhelmed them. At any rate it would not seem that the driving of evildoers forth in this way from the temple constituted any proper justification for driving bayonets into the bodies of men today, for blowing them up with hand grenades, for bombing cities with powerful long-range guns, or for destroying people regardless of their innocence or guilt through torpedo attacks from high-powered airplanes.

Kidnapers Caught Red-Handed

William Stubbe and La Verne Moore of Freeport, Ill., were caught by federal and state police three hours after they had kidnaped William Trevillian, wealthy manufacturer, for $25,000 ransom. Their undoing was the work of two brothers whom they took into the plot, and who reported them to police. The kidnappers are shown under arrest, left to right: U. S. Marshal William Thompson, William Stubbe, Sheriff E. J. Weiler, La Verne Moore, and Deputy Marshal Ben Berve.

If we want to justify war, we shall have to find some other grounds than this incident, which is really a revelation of the power of righteousness, and not a plea for the exercise of violence, even to effect righteous ends.

A BOOK A DAY

HOW TO PROFIT IN TIME OF INFLATION
By Bruce Catton

"The Primer of Inflation," by Earl Sparling, contains some timely advice for all of us confused folk who have been asking, "What is inflation likely to mean to me?"

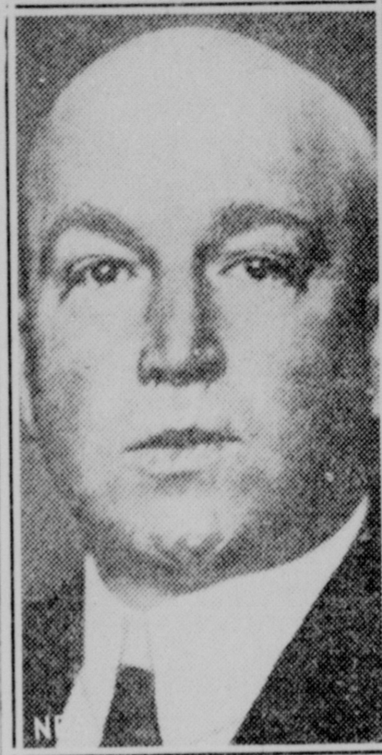

First of all, says Mr. Sparling, the man in debt when inflation begins stands to profit. He borrows at one level and pays off at a lower one, and the bigger the scale on which he does it the more he profits.

Secondly, he buys things like stocks and commodities. He buys on credit, as far as possible. He floats a loan, perhaps, on his insurance policy. Always, he remembers that he is handling dear money now but that he will be handling cheap money a little later on.

Unfortunately, however, as Mr. Sparling points out, the average citizen can't do a great deal of this. The profits of an inflationary period go chiefly to the "governing class," which class, he says, consists of those able to borrow money at the bank. If you belong to that class you are able to use a kind of money the rest of us can't touch—"book money," bank credit; and in an inflationary period such money is abundant, you can get it for the asking and you can do some very wonderful things with it.

For the wage earner and salaried employee, Mr. Sparling doesn't see a great deal of hope. Their pay will rise, but the cost of living will rise, but the cost of living will rise faster. The only consolation seems to be a time of deflation, like the immediate past, is even harder on them.

FARM HOLIDAYS START SATURDAY IN THE MIDWEST

The Strike Will Be Voluntary Head Of Assn. Declares Today

Des Moines, Iowa, May 11.—(AP)—Farmer Jones was making up his mind today whether to go to market Saturday or join the farm holiday.

Plans for the general farm sales holiday are under way by state presidents and county chairmen after being approved by Milo Reno, National Holiday President. The strike will be voluntary on the part of the individual farmer, he said.

The state and county officers will seek to obtain support from the farmers' marketing committees will be organized to deal directly with city buying committees, selling farm produce at a "fair" price.

Warning Issued
Their demand for the cost-of-production feature refused in federal farm legislation, the Holiday leaders were going ahead with the embargo set up with Reno's warning in their ears.

"If a fair and equitable adjustment is not made the farmer will no longer submit to confiscation of his property."

When the farm strike becomes effective Saturday, control of all milk markets will be assumed by the state of Wisconsin under executive order Governor A. G. Schmiedeman announced.

As the strike apparently drew near, the law was suspended today in Plymouth and Crawford counties in Iowa, the scene of disturbances two weeks ago. Civil authorities announced they planned to file charges today against persons responsible for the outbreaks.

COMPTON NEWS

By Leslie G. Archer

Compton.—Rain halted Compton's opening baseball game in the fifth inning. The locals inaugurated the Illinois Valley League season with a 10 to 3 victory over Troy Grove. Grove was Manager Webber's selection for the pitching burden, and showed fine form by allowing only four hits, and a total of three runs. A large crowd attended the opening game. Next Sunday the locals will go to Troy Grove. The following Sunday, West Brooklyn will play here.

The first meeting of the newly assembled village board met Tuesday evening. An ordinance for the sale of beer in the Village Limits was adopted. A license was granted to John Tribbett. One item of interest to local taxpayers, was that the village having retired its last water works improvement bond, was free from any indebtedness, thus making it possible to reduce the levy for this year's taxes considerably. A special meeting has been called by Mayor J. W. Banks, for the purpose of appointing a utility man for the village. Seal bids have been advertised for, and should be turned in to C. L. Ogilvie town clerk, on or before May 16, the day of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Delos Butler, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Roland J. Richardson, and husband, and son, spent the week end visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Robert J. Fuller and her husband, at their home in Toulon.

Besides the entries of quilts and rugs, there were shown a number of interesting articles of handiwork, including a collection of foreign-made handiwork loaned to the exhibit by Dr. Pool. This helped make the exhibition the most interesting one held in this section for many years.

The judges of the quilts were Mrs. Charters of Ashton, Mrs. Betts and Mrs. Perkins of Paw Paw. Mrs. Charters judged the rugs.

In the evening the Merriam Orchestra gave a delightful half-hour of music.

The committee in charge wish to thank all who helped make the occasion a successful one: the exhibitors, the judges, those on the program, and the public that attended and supported it. An added feature was the dance of several high school girls in old fashioned farm boy and girl costumes.

Teacher Saves 15 as Tornado Wrecks School

Fifteen children owe their lives to Miss Lucille Jamison, inset, their teacher. When a tornado struck the area near Maples Mills, Illinois, Miss Jamison herded her pupils into the basement of the school and told them amusing stories. In a few moments the storm's fury struck the brick school building, tore it from its foundation and scattered it several hundred feet away. The school building ruins are shown here.

Sixth grade: Dale Archer, Guy Mireley and George Ogilvie.

Fifth grade: Beatrice Chaon, Lorraine Grosshans, George Richardson.

Fourth grade: Betty Bauer, Leo Untz and Darlene Davis.

Statistics Refute "Weaker Sex" Idea

Washington.—The "weaker sex" idea has been overthrown, officially.

Public health records show that:

Girls have a lower mortality rate at birth and during childhood.

They begin to walk at six weeks to two months before their supposedly stronger brothers.

They begin to talk from two to three months earlier in life than the boys.

Women can stand more pain than men.

The statistics came from numerous searchers and hospital tests recorded in the health service and census files.

very plain containers should be used, ones in which the stalks will not be cut with as long stems as possible. In the case of poppies, cutting should be made a few hours before they are fully open, and the end of the stem plunged in hot water or a few minutes. In the case of artistic displays, choice of container is important and the exhibitor may use whatever kind he wishes. In these, any green foliage may be used to add to the attractiveness of arrangement.

Mrs. Susie Hills and Mrs. Ruth Ogilvie are in charge of this department of displays.

Soldier and Sailor Dead Remembered by Boy Scouts

This scene will be re-enacted in Arlington on Memorial Day

BOY SCOUTS of Washington and vicinity are planning their annual pilgrimage to Arlington National Cemetery to place an American flag on each of the thousands of graves so that none will be forgotten on Memorial Day. From the beautiful marble sarcophagus of the Unknown Soldier to the simple marble headstone which the Government provides for each man who saw military or naval service, none will be overlooked.

Memorial Day, designated in 1863 in a general order of John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, was originally set aside for the decoration of graves of Union Soldiers of the Civil War, but it has been extended to include the dead of other wars. May 30 is observed as Memorial Day and is a legal holiday in all States except Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Carolina and South Carolina. Several dates are observed as Confederate Memorial Day in the Southern States.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS YANKEES' HOLD ON FIRST PLACE NOT EXCLUSIVE

Marse Joe And Others Of World Champions Encounter Trouble

By HUGH S. FULLERTON
Due to the strength of the Cleveland Indians and a few other western clubs, the New York Yankees have surrendered their place of solitary splendor at the head of the American League standing for the first time in over a year.

Cleveland, which held the lead for a few minutes last Sunday, until the Yanks got back in the second game of a doubleheader, clambered up to share first place yesterday by beating the Boston Red Sox 4 to 2, while the world champions were taking a 10 to 2 beating from the White Sox at Chicago. The situation might have been even worse for the Yanks but for a late rally by the St. Louis Browns which downed Washington 5-0 and kept the Senators from taking a clear lead in the close race.

Yesterday's victory was something of a gift as an altered lineup for Cleveland failed to produce more than six hits off Bob Weiland, Boston southpaw. Three errors by the Red Sox made up the difference in hitting.

Yanks Tied Up
The Yanks, meanwhile, couldn't do a thing with the canny offerings of Samuel P. Jones, 40-year-old Chicago veteran. They garnered only six blows while the Sox, led by Al Simmons, pinned Lefty Gomez' ears back with a blast of base hits, drove the slender southpaw to cover in the second inning and netted five runs in that frame.

Washington's trouble was the Senators' inability to score in a nifty mound duel between George Blaloch and Earl Whitehill. It was a scoreless game for seven fast innings, and after holding the Browns to two hits in that time, Whitehill "blew" in the eighth, allowed two doubles, two singles and to walk, and Heinie Manush tossed in an error that aided St. Louis in scoring all its five runs.

MacKinnon Come Back
Philadelphia Athletics hit the comeback trail as they started against the shipping Detroit Tigers and moved into fifth place by taking both games of a doubleheader, 3-2 and 6-4. Merritt Cain and Ruben Walberg hurled good ball for the MacKinnons, who hit effectively in the first game and frequently in the second. They got only five blows off Fred Marberry in the opener but four walks and a home run by Bob Johnson helped provide the winning tallies.

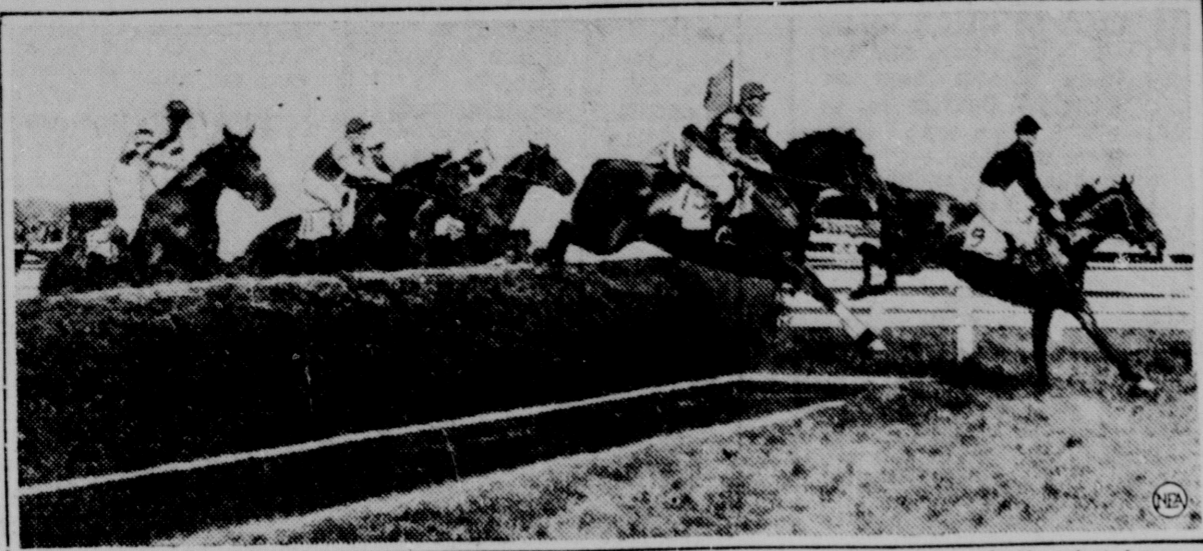

Bad weather reduced the National League program to one double-header which saw the Cincinnati Reds wallop the tail end Phillies twice and advance to the fourth place post, with a .509 average. The scores were 10-7 and 4-3. Chuck Klein made a noble effort to stave off defeat, walloping three home runs and batting in seven runs, but he couldn't match Cincinnati's six-run rally in the sixth inning of the opener, nor St. Johnson's steady flinging in the nightcap.

Aurora Derby To Be Serious Race

Chicago, May 11.—(AP)—From a race that looked like a chance for a pretty fair three-year-old to grab the big share of a $5,000 added purse, the first running of the Illinois Derby at Aurora, May 20, has become a serious sort of a horse race.

The probable field includes three Derby winners and others that belong to the same company. The R.

Not an English Racing Scene

Whenever one sees horses jumping, one thinks of jolly old England, where that's what horses do. But this scene was pictured right here in America—at Pinlicko track, to be exact—where steeplechases are features of the racing program. There's something wrong, though. Nobody is falling off a horse.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
WHY, MR. MCGRAW!

Rogers Hornsby has betrayed one of the sadder secrets of the magicians' union. The other day the Rajah spoke as follows: "Running a ball club on the field is a cinch. All this stuff about master-minding is the bunk. Anybody who knows baseball can direct the play and switch the players. That's the easiest part of a manager's job."

And all these years we have been laboring under the delusion that John McGraw and Connie Mack knew something!

SLEUTHING
But the Rajah does not stop with the brazen exposure of managerial brain-pans as noted above. The old rascal goes right on to say:

"Where the headaches come in is trying to keep track of a score of players at night. You think you can leave the ball game in the park but, believe me, you never can. There are jealousies, family troubles, illnesses, temperaments, accidents and what-not. That's what's tough!"

Maybe the reason why McGraw won more flags than any other manager in baseball lay in his prowess as a policeman. It was McGraw's custom to carry one man with the club who must wear rubber heels and effieate as night watchman. Stories of how the swashbuckling old Giants of other days used to outfit this arm of the law have been the subject of many baseball anecdotes.

THE ERRING SHORTSTOP
But in this connection, a story about Bill Killefer is one I like best. When Shortstop Jim Levey came to the majors he was a wild

M. Eastman Estate's Charley O., which placed third in the Kentucky Derby, and won the Florida Derby at Hialeah, Col. Hatfield, owned by M. B. Cohen, won the Louisiana Derby, and the Shandon Farms At Pot, took the Jefferson Derby.

Col. E. Bradley's Fingal, which was withdrawn from the Kentucky classic; Sarada, from the Catawba Stable, which received a big play in the Derby winter book, but was withdrawn when a cough developed; and L. M. Severson's Spiccon, are probable starters.

The race, at a mile and an eighth will feature the closing day of the Exposition Park meeting.

At Least 10 Horses To Start Preakness

Baltimore, May 11.—(AP)—Only ten of the Preakness candidates today appeared likely to face the barrier Saturday for the mile and three-sixteenth classic meet test for three-year-olds at Pimlico.

Four of the first five in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs last week were considered certain starters along with four more strong contenders.

In case of a wet track, the list may be increased to twelve with the addition of John E. Hughes' young man, fresh from the marines, much given to nocturnal entertainment that wasn't all confined to moving picture shows.

One night Bill sat up to wait for the young man. A reporter, who told me the story, sat with him. Between 3 and 4 A. M. Levey reached the hotel lobby, traveling in first gear. Bill gave the lad an hour of heart-to-heart talk.

"Why don't you try to copy that young Lyn Storti?" Bill asked finally. "Now there is a fellow who'll last a long time in baseball. In bed every night, and on the alert every minute, out there at third base."

Just then there was a commotion over to the left. A young man was having trouble finding his way out of the revolving door. Finally he made it—in reverse. And, of all things, it was—guess who? Well, go on and guess who!

DID YOU KNOW—
Leo Durocher's home run must stand as the miracle of the 1933 season—when Leo was short-stopping for the Yanks (now he's with the Reds) Waite Hoyt dubbed him the "All-America out"—and they said that the ball was dead this year. Not only that, but a glance at the records show that Durocher hit one home run last year, making the whole thing appear to be a frameup. He batted .217 last season, and at that was hitting far over his head—Leo got 98 hits out of 457 times at bat in 1932—a record like that makes one appreciate a guy like O'Doul, who hit safely 219 times out of 559 tries.

Durocher is a sweet little fielder, however, ranking third last year among regular National League shortstops, and making 30 errors out of 745 chances.

Silent Shot and the Weatley Stable's Utopian. A fast track will keep the pair in the stalls.

E. R. Bradley's Broker's Tip and Mrs. Silas E. Mason's Head Play, who fought it out for the Derby, with the former coming through for a narrow victory, headed the list of certain starters.

The W. R. Coe pair of Ladysman and Pomponius, who finished fourth and fifth at Churchill Downs, also were being groomed for the $25,000 added race.

Other three-year-olds who are certain to start in the Preakness are: Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, Brookmeade Stable's Inlander, Catawba Stable's Mr. Khayyam and Wheatley Stable's De Valera.

Oak Ridge To Meet Maytown On Sunday

The Maytown Cardinals will go to Oak Ridge Sunday afternoon for the opening baseball game of the season on the latter's diamond. Manager Russell Warner has recruited a strong team this spring which should provide some strong opposition during the summer months. "Smookey Joe" Miller of this city will carry on the major part of the pitching work and McGrath of Oak Ridge will be on the receiving end. The diamond has been put in good shape for Sunday's opening game and Manager Warner expects the loyal support of the Oak Ridge fans this season as in years past. The Riders will come to bat in the following order Sunday afternoon:

Don Hilliker, 2b; Bill Hargraves, ss; "Shires" Miller, 3b; McGrath, c; Kehrt, cf; C. Riley, lb; J. Miller, p; Smire, lf; Keogan, rf. "Bud" Lighner of this city and McGrath, a brother of the Riders' first string catcher will also be used to strengthen the team.

Wildcats Hold Lead In Big Ten League

Chicago, May 11.—(AP)—Northwestern today was in sole possession of first place in the Western Conference baseball race, thanks to Purdue.

The Lollermakers yesterday handed Indiana its first defeat in four games, 12 to 10. The defeat left Northwestern, with its two straight victories, at the top, and dropped the Hoosiers into a tie for second with Illinois.

Iowa dropped a non-conference game to Notre Dame, 8 to 5, yesterday, but had a chance to get it back today.

ITALIAN NAVAL OFFICER SHOT AS A TRAITOR

Beautiful Female Accomplice Given 24-Hour Stay

Rome, May 11.—(AP)—Ugo Travaglia, a warrant officer in the Italian Navy, was executed by a firing squad today for disclosing naval plans to a foreign power. His accomplice, a beautiful Italo-French woman, was granted a stay of twenty-four hours while the King considers her application for mercy.

The accomplice, Camilla Agliardi, also was sentenced to death after the strictly secret trial, which came to an end last night. It was reported there was another accomplice, whose fate was not revealed.

Travaglia was shot in the back at dawn by a firing squad at Fort Braccini. He was tied to a chair. This is the usual form of execution for enemies of the state in Italy.

He allegedly had been selling Italian naval plans to France for ten years.

Several high naval officers were dismissed from their posts on charges of negligence in connection with the case. The officer's completed last night. The officer's wife did not know his whereabouts until two days ago, as the proceedings were kept secret.

Do You Remember?

Five Years Ago Today — Walter Hagen won the British Open for the third time.

Ten Years Ago Today — The Yale track squad beat Notre Dame in a dual meet at New Haven, Conn. Yale runners took 12 out of 15 firsts.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press
Sam Jones, White Sox—Held Yankees to six hits and fanned five for third straight mound victory.

Carl Reynolds, Browns—Made two of teams six hits against Washington and batted in two runs in winning rally.

Chuck Klein, Phillies, and Chick Hefey, Reds—Klein hit three homers and batted in seven runs in doubleheader; Hefey drove home three runs with homer that climaxed winning rally in first game.

Willis Hudlin, Indians — Held Red Sox to seven hits and lost shutout through error.

Bob Johnson and Mickey Cochrane, Athletics—Johnson's homer was winning run in first game against Detroit; Cochrane hit two doubles and single in second.

School Planned At The State Hospital

A school of instruction is to be held here Saturday at the Dixon state hospital beginning at 9:30 in the morning. Tomorrow Is 101st Anniversary Of Lincoln's Enlistment In Army

Tomorrow will mark the 101st anniversary of the arrival at the Dixon block fort of Captain Abraham Lincoln at the head of his company of 68 volunteers, recruited by him in central Illinois for service in the Blackhawk War.

The Lincoln statue in this city, pictured above, designed by Sculptor Crumley and erected by the state of Illinois, commemorates that historic event—the enlistment of the future martyred President in the Army of the United States.

The original roster of Capt. Lincoln's company is a prized possession of Frank Stevens of Sycamore, formerly of this city.

REDUCTIONS OF VETERANS FUND TO BE REVIEWED Compensation Cuts In Some Cases More Than Intended

Washington, May 11.—(AP)—The ranks of the bonus seeking army of 1933 were swelled rapidly today, but they were split into two antagonistic camps, one sheltered and the other housed by the government.

A money band of veterans, followers of Harold Poukrod, had temporary headquarters on a vacant lot within a stone's throw of the Capitol dome. The shadows of their camp fire last night danced against the windows of the House Office Building. Today they were ordered by police to evacuate before sundown.

Ten miles away, at Fort Hunt, Virginia, Army tents housed about 300 other former soldiers who were given breakfast and cigarettes by their host, the Roosevelt administration.

Police efforts to have the Poukrod faction of the bonus army partake of the government hospitality at Fort Hunt were unavailing. Poukrod contended those gathered there under the banner of the Veterans National Liaison Committee were Communists. Similar charges have been made in Congress.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt had let it be known that the economies expected to be effected through slashes in veterans' payments for service-connected disabilities would be reviewed and made less severe.

A statement was issued last evening by the White House, saying that as a result of conferences between the President, Louis Johnson, Commander of the American Legion, and Director Lewis Douglas of the Budget, and application of new regulations "it now seems that the cut in compensation of service-connected World War veterans with specific injuries has been deeper than intended."

Regional offices of the Veterans Administration will not be closed except where they are found unnecessary, the statement said, and government hospitals will not be shut down pending a survey, which is expected to take some time.

The House now has before it the independent office bill, carrying a reduction for veterans' expenditures of $400,000,000 less than was voted by the last Congress.

DAIRLING FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONNIE O'DARE is secretly engaged to DAN CARDIGAN, heir to a local fortune. He does not want his parents to know of the engagement because they oppose the marriage. Monnie and Dan plan to elope in June when the will come into some money of his own.

Dan is jealous of CHARLES EUSTACE, handsome newcomer, who shows Monnie marked attention. BILL O'DARE is engaged to ANGIE GILLEN whose divorce is still pending. MRS. O'DARE is much distressed because of this situation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI
ANGIE stammered. "Pleased to—," and then, thinking better of it, went on hurriedly, "Bill's told me a lot about you."

Mrs. O'Dare said, "I'm glad he brought you. We've been wanting to meet you." She smiled to show she meant it and, in spite of the sinking of her heart, was glad to discover that Bill's girl was, as Kay had described her, "not a bad sort." If her bright sweater fitted the curves of her rounded figure a trifle too candidly, still the big eyes framed in mascaraed lashes had a likable honesty about them. All Belvedere—that is all that part of it which knew the O'Dares well enough to observe their comings and goings—would gossip that night about Angie's call on Bill's mother.

"What's the world coming to?" old ladies would ask, with upraised hands. "Time was when that sort of woman was shown the door."

No, the trouble was, Mrs. O'Dare reflected, that Angie wasn't what the old ladies meant when they said "that sort of woman." Angie was fundamentally good. She had been trapped by nature into an unwise marriage. Now, at 21, she was struggling to get out of the trap.

The conversation languished. Angie admired the ferns in the hanging pots, admired the burst of phlox under the windows. Unusually, under her chatter, she was observing Bill's mother, wondering what was behind all this apparent simplicity and friendliness. Poor Angie, she wasn't much used to kindness! She was a bit suspicious of it.

"I made some iced tea, Bill. You bring it in—and the cookies from the pantry," his mother commanded, conscious of her son's fidgeting attention.

The quiet of Denny street on Sunday afternoon brooded over everything and when the two women were alone together silence fell like a blanket on both. Mrs. O'Dare broke it. "Bill tells me you plan to be married as soon as—the divorce goes through."

Angie stared at her, with just a hint of trepidation. "Yes, that's what we were thinking."

"When—when will that be?" Mrs. O'Dare could not quite keep a tremor of anxiety out of her tone.

"I don't know," Angie confessed, "but I think—somehow I have the feeling you'd be better off starting in some new place," she said bravely. "This is such a small place. You know how people are—"

Angie winked suddenly. She hadn't expected this reception. Unconsciously she had braced herself for tears, reproaches, pleas. She had expected to be looked over coldly, snubbed, dismissed. This quiet little woman with the graying chestnut hair and the fine eyes seemed actually to be accepting her.

She gulped. "Yes—I mean certainly, Mrs. O'Dare. That's what I was telling Bill only the other day. He doesn't exactly see it my way." Her defenses down, she plunged forward, voluble, excited. Bill and she could get a little flat in the city. She could get another job—she always did—and there were so many big garages there. Bill would be sure to find work. She forgot to be careful of her grammar.

"She does love him," the mother thought. "She's really a good little thing. If only—"

Even in her own mind she couldn't finish the sentence. If only Angie weren't so palpably the product of the wrong sort of training, or rather the lack of training, her rebellious heart cried out! Well, it couldn't be helped. You didn't choose your son's wife. In Mrs. O'Dare's simple code, you made the best of it.

Bill came back in, awkwardly balancing a tray. He glanced anxiously from Angie to his mother, relieved at what he saw.

"I'll have to be taking Angie back now, mother," he said after an interval, glancing at his watch. "I promised Harnett I'd be back at 6. He's got to drive his wife to the Springs."

He was relieved, she could see, that everything had passed off so smoothly. Poor boy, he had probably dreaded the ordeal! She kissed him, smoothing his roughened fair hair. Poor Bill, toll-hardened at 22, anxious, in love with the wrong girl! Well, it couldn't be helped. She sighed, watching the flash of Angie's sweater through the greenery. She would do the best she could. She simply would not think what the loss of Bill's earnings would mean to the little family. Kay was beginning to help now. That meant a lot. And poor Monnie! Well, there was no use looking ahead, borrowing trouble. You had to live each day as it came. It was the only way.

SHE went about, straightening cushions, picking up glasses. Kay came in, hair dripping wet from a swim. She had gone with Rissy down to the river.

"Well?" Kay challenged her. "They're just gone." Mrs. O'Dare sat down, sighing. "She's really a good little thing, Kay. Only so—so—" she hesitated for a word.

"Ordinary." Kay finished the sentence for her.

"Yes," Bill's mother shrugged her shoulders. "It shouldn't matter, I suppose, what she does with the language, but somehow it does."

"Of course it does. Silly to pretend it doesn't," said practical Kay. "We're all a little snobbish, really. What I can't understand is why she doesn't bore Bill to tears. He's smart, really. Likes to read and he's always been so ambitious."

"I know. That's the sad part. In two years—or less perhaps—I'm afraid Bill will be wondering what he ever saw in Angie. You can't make him understand now. No use trying."

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN
The Good Book says that Paul and Silas sang praises unto God while in jail, but the large crowds that have gathered at the Brethren Church during National Music Week have been under more favorable circumstances as they have sung and made melody in their hearts in the observance of music week. As usual a well-filled house was ready and eager for the fine program that was ready to be given at 7:30. The down pour of rain a few minutes before time to assemble did not seem to cut down the attendance, and a fine spirit prevailed. There were delegations from Sterling and Mount Morris last night and several numbers from each group were given. Sterling presented a mixed quartette and Mount Morris furnished a male quartette, a mixed quartette, and a girl's duet. Rev. E. E. McCune of Mount Morris gave a very interesting talk on the "Value of Good Singing in Our Churches."

The man who sings his way through life will possess a cheery atmosphere and be a blessing to mankind. Special help is coming from Sterling and Franklin Grove tonight to help in the program. A fine program is in store for those who come again tonight. Rev. O.

GANG CONTROL OF TEAMSTERS' UNION REPORTED BROKEN

Chicago Coal Dealers' Assn. Breaks Up Drivers' Strike

Chicago, May 11.—(AP)—Alleged racketeer control of the Chicago Teamsters' Union was declared broken today as officials ordered 3,000 drivers and hikers to return to work at a reduced wage scale.

State's Attorney William J. Courtney was one of the first to make the announcement of the end of the strike, but declared that the war he and Mayor Edward J. Kelly declared against racketeers would be continued.

Breaking of the strike marked a victory for the Chicago Coal Merchants' Association, 187 of whose yards were closed in an attempt to break the grip the Trucking & Transportation Agency reputedly had on the union.

T-N-T Gang Control
Coal yard officials had expressed a willingness to deal with the union, but would have nothing to do with the T-N-T, as the agency was known. They said it was controlled by gangster influence and named Murray Humphreys, on police records as a "public enemy," as its head.

In agreeing to put their men back on the job today union officials renounced their affiliation with the T-N-T and obtained similar action from three unaffiliated outlying unions. They agreed to return to work at the $7.50 scale.

Shortly before the end of the strike was announced Charles W. McCoy, president of the United Coal Dealers' Association, told police an attempt was made on his life as he was returning home from a meeting of the organization. He said two men fired at him but that he was uninjured. What connection, if any the attack had with the "coal war" was not revealed.

It is your duty to carry Accident Insurance. If you use an automobile you can protect your family to the amount of $1,000 for 1 year for $12.50. 11113

TRUTH in advertising, backed by proof in quality and service, is the basis for the success of any business.

Concerns who make a success on a policy of square dealing and giving full value hold an enviable position among concerns in their line of business.

Truthful advertising turns hesitators into buyers and makes buyers buy more.

Truthful advertising is a service that will enable a business concern to make the most of its opportunities.

Truthful advertising is an even gaited service that brings steady returns. No business can start right or keep going right without its aid.

Truthful advertising will always create and increase community interest in a business. Concerns that use it are building their business to endure.

Truthful advertisers have busy places of business because the public believes in buying where the best buys are to be found.

REAL SEA DOGS

NO need now to worry about leaving the dog behind when taking the sea route from New York to California, or vice versa.

Thanks to the luxury pet accommodations on new Grace ships, all "sea dogs" enjoy roomy individual compartments installed in a specially built steel house on top of the boat deck.

This house is also insulated against heat in southern waters. This comfortable sea-going pet "hotel" is fully equipped with running water, and also provided with controlled ventilation which like regular passenger accommodations on the rest of the ship supplies cold air in the tropics and warm air in the cooler zones.

Special attendants take care of every personal need pet may require during voyage. They receive a special diet and every day they are allowed to stretch their "sea legs" on a section of the deck specially reserved for their use.
